

Hale said that he would like to begin outreach to other nearby communities to make slash removal services available throughout the year.

Hale also said that the membership meeting in January will have a new format, with a State of Woodmoor presentation followed by opportunities to speak to board members about their responsibilities. The food will be better and there may be door prizes to encourage attendance, he said.

Finally, Hale said that the association's new attorney, Leonard Rieth, suggested that WIA not attempt to change its covenants because the organization evolved from three small areas to one large one and combining them may result in legal difficulties. The board approved abandonment of the new covenants.

The board of the Woodmoor Improvement Association usually meets at 7 p.m. on the fourth Wednesday of each month. Due to the Thanksgiving holiday, the board will instead meet on the third Wednesday, Nov. 20.

Lewis-Palmer D-38 Board of Education, Oct. 17

Safety council makes recommendations

By Harriet Halbig

The Oct. 17 meeting of the Lewis-Palmer Board of Education was divided into two parts—the first to receive the report of the Safety and Security Advisory Council (SSAC) and the second a public forum about the upcoming vote on a mill levy override.

The SSAC, formed in March, consists of 20 community members with expertise in safety and crisis management and 10 district staff members. The group is divided into four subcommittees:

- Terrorism/crime prevention/building safety
- Physical location/community/natural disasters
- Facilities services/bus safety
- Climate and culture

Each subcommittee visited all district facilities and developed a list of recommendations to improve the security of the students and staff.

The terrorism subcommittee examined adding camera monitors and alarms, inspected ease of ingress and egress at each building, and discussed methods of evacuation, reunification, and lockdown in the case of an emergency.

The subcommittee recommended that the addition of inexpensive monitoring devices would provide a good deterrent. It also recommended the use of fire doors to partition a building in the case of an emergency, the purchase of radios for communication, revision of entry doors so that entry is a two-step process,
