Other matters

Treasurer Tom Schoemaker reported that the association is still under budget.

Common Areas Director W. Lee Murray reported that spraying for noxious weeds has been completed and mowing has begun.

Hale reported that there were 122 covenant violations May, primarily for excess fuel, signs, exterior maintenance, and projects begun without Architectural Control approval. Architectural Control Director Darren Rouse reported that the subcommittee is doing its final review of the design standards manual and that the committee hopes to have the document completed and in use by the end of the summer after a period of comment by residents and the board.

Forestry Director Eris Gross said that there have now been 114 lot evaluations this year, primarily for fire concerns. He said that mountain pine beetle flying season is from July 1 to Oct. 1 and stressed that fresh pine slash should not be left on a property during that time.

The board of the Woodmoor Improvement Association meets at 7 p.m. on the fourth Wednesday of each month at the association's Barn, 1691 Woodmoor Drive, Monument. The next meeting will be on July 24.

Dr. Marie Revak, former director of Assessment for the district, and Nina Zubiell were recognized for founding AfterMath, a free math tutoring program at the Monument Library. One hundred twenty students from third grade through college age took advantage of the program during the 2012-13 school year, during the fall and again during the spring semester. Students from School District 20, Pikes Peak Community College, and the University of Colorado at Colorado Springs also participated.

Revak said that she contacted people she knew from the Air Force Academy, while Zubiell contacted those on the list of tutors from Lewis-Palmer High School. The number of tutors participating grew from eight to 20 during the course of the year. Many were retired teachers.

Zubiell said that many Advanced Placement math students came every week, sometimes with two or three from a class meeting with a single tutor. She suggested that the district post the program on the campus website. She also said that certain aspects of math seemed to be weak spots and offered to meet with Superintendent John Borman and others to discuss them.

Revak said that she has requested a grant from Monument Hill Kiwanis for the purchase of several small tables for the use of the tutors.

Zubiell said that the East and Rockrimmon libraries have requested help in setting up similar programs.

The board also recognized the efforts of Cathy Wilcox, Jim Carter, and Sue Huisman for their success in obtaining a Building Excellent Schools Today (BEST) grant to fund 45 percent of the cost of reroofing Lewis-Palmer High School. The team had success in acquiring two previous grants as well by creating a good relationship with
